TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

Action by the Utah State Board of Education in January 1984 established a policy requiring the identification of specific Core Curriculum standards, which must be completed by all students K-12 as a requisite for graduation from Utah's secondary schools. This action was followed by three years of extensive work involving all levels of the education family in the process of identifying, trial testing, and refining these Core Curriculum standards for Utah's schools.

The Core Curriculum represents those standards of learning that are essential for all students. They are the ideas, concepts, and skills that provide a foundation on which subsequent learning may be built.

The Core should be taught with respect for differences in learning styles, learning rates, and individual capabilities without losing sight of the common goals. Although the Core Curriculum standards are intended to occupy a major part of the school program, they are not the total curriculum of a level or course.

R277. Education, Administration.
R277-700. The Elementary and Secondary School Core Curriculum.
R277-700-1. Definitions.

A. "Accredited" means evaluated and approved under the Standards for Accreditation of the Northwest Association of Schools and Colleges or the accreditation standards of the Board, available from the USOE Accreditation Specialist.

B. "Applied technology education (ATE)" means organized educational programs or courses which directly or indirectly prepare students for employment, or for additional preparation leading to employment, in occupations, where entry requirements generally do not require a baccalaureate or advanced degree.

C. "Basic skills course" means a subject which requires mastery of specific functions and was identified as a course to be assessed under Section 53A-1-602.

D. "Board" means the Utah State Board of Education.

E. "Core Curriculum content standard" means a broad statement of what students enrolled in public schools are expected to know and be able to do at specific grade levels or following completion of identified courses.

F. "Core Curriculum criterion-referenced test (CRTs)" means a test to measure performance against a specific standard. The meaning of the scores is not tied to the performance of other students.

G. "Core Curriculum objective" means a more focused description of what students enrolled in public schools are expected to know and do at the completion of instruction.

H. "Demonstrated competence" means subject mastery as determined by school district standards and review. School district review may include such methods and documentation as: tests, interviews, peer evaluations, writing samples, reports or portfolios.

I. "Elementary school" for purposes of this rule means grades K-6 in whatever kind of school the grade levels exist.

J. "High school" for purposes of this rule means grades 9-12 in whatever kind of school the grade levels exist.

K. "Individualized Education Program (IEP)" means a written statement for a student with a disability that is developed, reviewed, and revised in accordance with the Utah Special Education Rules and Part B of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

L.	"Middle school" for purposes of this rule means grades 7-8 in whatever kind of school the grade levels exist.

M.	"Norm-referenced test" means a test where the scores are based on comparisons with a nationally representative group of students in the same grade. The meaning of the scores is tied specifically to student performance relative to the performance of the students in the norm group under very specific testing conditions.

N.	"State core Curriculum (Core Curriculum)" means those standards of learning that are essential for all Utah students, as well as the ideas, concepts, and skills that provide a foundation on which subsequent learning may be built, as established by the Board.

O.	"USOE" means the Utah State Office of Education.

P.	"Utah Basic Skills Competency Test" means a test to be administered to Utah students beginning in the tenth grade to include at a minimum components on English, language arts, reading and mathematics. Utah students shall satisfy the requirements of the Utah Basic Skills Competency Test in addition to school or district graduation requirements prior to receiving a basic high school diploma.

Elementary Fine Arts Core Curriculum

Introduction

The Core Curriculum for Elementary Fine Arts is written to communicate what students are expected to know and be able to do in dance, music, theater, and visual arts. The intended result is to effect in students: (a) the development of affective, cognitive, and psychomotor skills in the arts, (b) the joy of self-expression and aesthetic awareness, (c) a personal connection with community heritage and varied cultures, and (d) the achievement of Life Skills. The Core espouses no specific methodologies but supports the experiential development of primary arts skills as the natural vehicle for discovering the attendant history, culture, aesthetics, critiquing, and other relevant connections to the student's world in and out of school.

The Core centers on discovering the joy, richness, and depth of the arts through active involvement with the art form. It is designed to strengthen and advance the kinetic, pragmatic, playful, curious, creative, sensitive, and imaginative nature of elementary students through self-expression, heightened perception, and development of skills indigenous to dance, music, theater, and visual arts. To deepen understanding of the traditions and cultures of various peoples and communities, recommended music, art, literature, and folk arts are coordinated with the topics in the Social Studies Elementary Core Curriculum.

Implications for Implementation

The Core Curriculum for dance, music, theater, and visual arts provides the basis of professionalism and accountability for teachers, and defines the expectations and achievement standards for students. Curriculum standards create strength, unity, and heightened concern for the achievement of essential learning objectives. Each student and teacher must view these standards as both essential and desirable. Students have the prime responsibility for their own artistic achievement. The success of these curriculum standards will only be accomplished by the broad-based acceptance of classroom teachers, students, administrators, parents, artists, and dance, drama, music, and visual arts specialists from kindergarten through college throughout the state of Utah.

Teachers are the guides who provide direction for learning by continuing their personal professional development and collegial collaborations and by offering students engaging and positive opportunities for skill development, high caliber models of artwork, authentic and accurate sources of information, relevant connections to the student's world, and guidance in formative self-assessment. The role of administrators is to provide the necessary leadership, instructional time, qualified personnel, facilities, professional development, technological support, materials, and administrative support for achieving the Fine Arts Core Curriculum.

Parents are encouraged to supplement classroom learning through encouraging the study and appreciation of art, music, dance, and theater as a family, listening and being informed of school activities and requirements, and personal involvement in school and community activities as appropriate. Professional artists can provide models of career opportunities, expertise, local relevancy, and opportunities for teachers and students to collaborate in the professional setting.

Organization, Sequence, Format

The Elementary Fine Arts Core Curriculum appears in alphabetical order: Dance, Music, Theater, and Visual Arts. The curriculum for each is organized into four standards, with accompanying objectives and assessment indicators. A statement of student work clarifies the parameters of each standard. The objectives articulate specific goals to be accomplished by the student. The assessment indicators are tools designed to measure achievement of the objective through relevant performance tasks. Examples of instructional strategies and literature have been thoughtfully included in many instances.

All standards are printed in boldface type. Boldface type words found elsewhere in the document signal the reader that a definition may be found in the glossary at the back of the document. All assessment indicators are set apart with a bullet, and all strategy examples are underlined. Correlations to other elementary core documents have been footnoted to identify possibilities for integrated instruction.

The numbering system works as follows: The kindergarten numbers for dance begin with 1400, music with 1500, theater with 1300, and visual arts with 1000. The last two numbers of the four digits change according to grade level; e.g., first grade dance being 1410, second grade music being 1520.

The number of the standard is the underlined figure appearing after the hyphen. The specific number of each objective appears as the last two underlined digits in the series of four numbers which indicate the standard and the objective; e.g., 0102 means the second objective of the first standard, 0401 means the first objective of the fourth standard.

Elementary Dance Core Curriculum

Mission Statement

Children love to move. Children need to move. They learn through engagement of the whole self. They take in information through multi-sensory processes that are directly addressed and fostered through dance. The power of dance education inherently promotes within students lifelong learning, complex learning, effective communicating, compassion, aesthetic awareness, collaboration skills, responsible citizenship, and career readiness. The purpose of the Utah Dance Core Curriculum is to describe dance standards, objectives, and assessment indicators for students K-12 through creative movement. This curriculum first focuses on student learning through movement that develops bodily skill and kinesthetic awareness. Second, it outlines movement activities that develop understanding of the dance elements of time, space, and energy. Third, activities which emphasize the creative process and development of artistic insight and expressive skill are set forth. Fourth, it describes strategies to help the learner discover how dance fits into one's own life, the lives of others, and reveals the historical and cultural perspectives that connect humanity.

Philosophy

Dance is a universal language, an expressive and vibrant art with the capacity to unify the physical, mental, social, emotional, and spiritual aspects of the human being. Dance is one of the most direct means to understand and value the world in which we live. It is a record of human expression and has been a part of the life of every culture throughout the span of human existence. Dance has the power to both conserve and expand culture. It preserves tradition and encourages exploration and invention. Dance enhances the quality of life for performer, creator, and audience member alike. Every human being has the right to move in ways that are individual, expressive, and enlightening.

Overview

This curriculum is written to aid the teacher and student to facilitate the learning of dance as an art form. Four standards are included: moving, investigating, creating, and contextualizing. Three or possibly all four standards may be addressed in every movement lesson. In dance, the emphasis must always be on actively engaging the child through participation. A 30-minute class might be as follows: a five-minute warm-up, five minutes for locomotor movements, 15 minutes for problem solving through exploring and creating, and five minutes for showing solutions and discussion. In a 30-minute lesson such as this, please note that over 25 minutes is spent moving, while less than five minutes is in discussion. Critiquing, discussing, and evaluating is important for processing; however, at the elementary level, two to three minutes is ample.

Elementary Dance Standards

Standard 1: Moving

> The student identifies and demonstrates knowledge of the body as the instrument of dance by exploring movement skills. This includes the practice of safety for self and others and regular participation in body strengthening, flexibility, and endurance activities through stationary and locomotor movement.

Standard 2: Investigating

> The student identifies and demonstrates the dance elements of time, space, and energy. This involves the student in exploration of the elements and enables the student to recognize how these elements are used by performers and choreographers.

Standard 3: Creating

> The student understands and demonstrates choreographic principles and processes in the art form of dance. These principles and processes include solving a problem through a sequence of exploring, integrating, synthesizing, making choices, and organizing a final expression through movement.

Standard 4: Contextualizing

> The student understands and demonstrates dance in relation to its historical, cultural, and personal origins. This contributes to an appreciation of personal, physical, and emotional uniqueness. It also helps the student to understand the language of dance in daily life.

Elementary Music Core Curriculum

Mission Statement

Music has the power to touch children. It reaches the perceptual, intellectual, cultural, emotional, and spiritual dimensions of their lives. It promotes creativity, thinking, and joy. The Music Core Curriculum is dedicated to provide a complete, balanced, and sequential music education for every child in Utah.

Philosophy

The basic role of music education is to contribute to the development of the whole person through affective, cognitive, and psychomotor experiences in music. Music as a curriculum should provide opportunity for individual growth and positive recognition. The power of music education inherently promotes within students lifelong learning, complex thinking, effective communicating, compassion, aesthetic awareness, collaborative skills, responsible citizenship, and career readiness.

Experiences in music should provide a conceptual understanding of the basic properties of the elements of music; e.g., rhythm, melody, texture, harmony, form, timbre, and expressive qualities. To achieve its role, music requires a well-balanced, sequential course of study.

The Core represents only the essential concepts and skills that every student should master and includes guidance in providing added proficiencies and mastery where conditions permit. In general, the overall music program should create a positive bridge between the school and the community, both in cultural awareness and in collaborative participation.

Overview

The transformation of a child into a knowing musician involves the ability to use a variety of musical skills and knowledge. Students work toward comprehensive competence from the early grades by being exposed to a full, balanced, and sequential curriculum. The Elementary Music Core is designed to keep the joy of creating, making, and experiencing music at the center by involving children in developmentally appropriate and holistic learning experiences in singing, playing, creating, and listening.

The success of any educational program design and implementation rests on many shoulders. We acknowledge the contribution of classroom teachers, music specialists, parents, state and district curriculum specialists, and the college/university community.

Elementary Music Standards

Standard 1: Singing

The student will develop the voice and body as instruments of musical expression. This standard provides students with ability to recognize and take satisfaction in good singing. Activities include exploring the potential of the human voice to make sounds, using body movement to internalize sounds, and discovering how songs and singing games reveal history and ways of thinking. Developing an understanding of the historical and cultural context of the music being studied fosters unity with, and understanding of, one's family, classmates, school, community, and various cultural traditions.

Standard 2: Playing

The student will play instruments as a means of musical expression. Learning how to read music notation and evaluate the development of one's own playing skills accompanies this study. As is the case with singing, successfully playing a musical instrument nurtures self-discipline, cooperation, sensitivity, attentiveness, responsibility, and the joy of self-expression.

Standard 3: Creating

The student will create music through improvising, arranging, and composing. Involvement in the creative process is collaborative. The making of something new enables students to absorb the enthusiasm and joy of imagining, improvising, problem solving, synthesizing, decision making, evaluating, and refining. Activities include experimentation with timbres, dynamics, tempi, melodic and rhythmic patterns, textures, forms, and styles. Explorations include communicating aesthetically, relating the creative/experimental process in music to other fields, and representing musical sounds through notation.

Standard 4: Listening

The student will listen to, analyze, and describe music. Activities include learning how to evaluate quality while creating and performing music, finding personal meaning/purpose in various music selections, and the opportunity to become intimately acquainted with the nature and use of the music elements. Familiarity and understanding of these elements enables students to recognize how they are used in music to create meaning and communicate ideas and feelings about life. Students will gain familiarity with the musical works of many great composers and folk musicians. Students will gain understanding of how music affects an environment; how it relates to science, art, theater, dance, mathematics, health, humanities, and the media; and how it provides a means for enriching and responding to life.

Elementary Theater Core Curriculum

Mission Statement

The emphasis of these standards is to provide a model for the development of the essential knowledge and skill base required to demonstrate proficiency in theater arts in grades K-6.

Philosophy

Theater, the imagined and enacted world of human beings, is one of the primary ways children learn about actions and consequences, about customs and beliefs, and about others and themselves. They learn through their social pretend play and from hours of viewing television and film. For instance, children use pretend play as a means of making sense of the world; they create situations to play and assume roles; they interact with peers and arrange environments to bring their stories to life; they direct one another to bring order to their drama; and they respond to each other's dramas. In other words, children arrive at school with rudimentary skills as playwrights, actors, designers, directors, and audience members. Theater education should build on this solid foundation.

These theater standards assume that theater education will start with and have strong emphasis on improvisation, which is the basis of social pretend play. Theater education embodies both critical and creative thinking. It provides students with the life skills to actively explore and function successfully in the techno-social world of today while learning to develop skills as performing artists. The theater curriculum will develop the students' abilities to express their understanding of their immediate world and broaden their knowledge of other cultures--past, present, and future.

Overview

The success of these standards will only be accomplished by the broad-based acceptance of classroom teachers and theater specialists throughout the state of Utah. Each teacher must see these standards as important and essential to helping them individually meet the specific needs of their students.

The standards provide the basis of professionalism and accountability for teachers as well as define the expectations and achievement standards for students. Curriculum standards represent strength and unity for teachers. They provide a common direction and instructional approach that heighten the value of the entire field of study.

Elementary Theater Standards

Standard 1: Playmaking

The student refines the planning phase of the informal theater process through the creation of classroom dramatizations based on personal experiences and heritage, imagination, literature, and history. Playmaking most often leads to improvised theater with a beginning, middle, and end. Playmaking informally involves the natural dramatic play instincts cultivated in early childhood. This includes the intrinsic nonperformance elements of the theater process: designing, directing, researching, comparing and integrating art forms, analyzing and critiquing, and understanding context, especially historical and cultural contexts. Playmaking, in grades K-6, becomes the formal process of script writing when introduced as a content standard in the secondary grades.

Standard 2: Acting

The student refines the playing or performance phase of the informal theater process through cooperating, imagining and assuming roles, exploring personal preferences and meanings, and interacting in classroom dramatizations. Acting in grades K-6 is a cumulative and culminating experience involving sensory and emotional awareness, rhythm and movement, pantomime, vocal expression and oral communication, improvisation, and some formal presentation usually shared within the classroom setting.

Standard 3: Understanding Art Forms

The student refines the examining phase of the informal theater process by comparing, connecting, and incorporating art forms and by describing and analyzing methods of presentations and audience responses for theater, film, television, and electronic media. This content standard is introduced in the third grade with the intent to enhance the student's introduction to and interaction with live theater performance from the audience viewpoint and to reveal the role of film, television, and electronic media in one's life.

Standard 4: Analyzing and Constructing Meanings

The student refines the evaluating phase of the informal theater process through explaining personal preferences and constructing meanings in responding to improvised and scripted scenes and in responding to theater, film, television, and electronic media productions. This standard is introduced in the fourth grade with the intent to enhance the student's ability to analyze and construct meanings from interactions with theater, film, television, and electronic media.

Elementary Visual Arts Core Curriculum

Mission Statement

The Visual Arts Core is dedicated to teaching the students of Utah to develop and refine their skills in creating works of art, to analyze and reflect upon both their own and significant works of art, to find an artistic means of expressing their thoughts and discoveries, and to find meaningful relationships between the visual arts and the many faceted world in which they live. The Visual Arts Core is designed to teach these things by way of active participation in the creation of works of art and thereby develop an appreciation of artworks. The students will be taught from significant artworks as well as the arts created in their region.

Philosophy

To prepare children to become functional adults in our modern civilization, we must educate them not only to understand our world but to contribute to it. They need to know how to do more than survive; they need to know how to make their own way in an ever-changing landscape of technology and information exchange. In the range of modern human experience, there is far more information to be gained than can be conveyed in words and numbers alone. This is why the arts are included and required in the Utah State Core Curriculum. The arts enable the students' perceptions and imaginations to grow and develop. An education in the visual arts gives students the opportunity to perceive and interpret knowledge in existing images as well as the opportunity to express themselves meaningfully and creatively through visual images.

To attain this kind of visual literacy, the Visual Arts Core provides experiences that prepare the students to generate, identify, and then solve aesthetic problems throughout their lives. The Core also fosters artistic perceptions and thinking skills such as observation, memory, imagination, innovation, interaction, reflection, and independent thinking. The Visual Arts Core teaches that art is a mode of inquiry as well as a form of expression helping people communicate and deal with ideas that cannot be captured in traditional academics. It also gives opportunities to create works of art that reflect the students' uniqueness and deal with significant ideas that possess personal meaning. Indeed, the Visual Arts Core Curriculum will provide a powerful and lasting contribution to Utah students' ability to acquire life skills to be successful.

Overview

The visual arts standards are designed to teach first an active participation in the creation of artwork. The Core then provides the opportunity to learn the other significant attributes of art such as aesthetics and the relationship of art to other learning.

The four standards are laid out in a sequence that suggests an increasing level of difficulty in skill and knowledge. The first standard deals with the use of art tools, materials, and processes. To be successful in an art program, a student must gain a degree of control and a measure of confidence with art materials and techniques. The second standard is concerned with students looking to significant works of art to recognize the elements and principles, and, once having seen how they function in those masterful pieces, the students use complex thinking to apply them in their own art. The third standard brings the students an understanding of the content and aesthetics of artwork as they are led to effectively communicate by expressing meanings, ideas, and stories through art elements and principles and a variety of art materials. The fourth standard stages activities that give the students a personal sense of visual arts heritage and responsible citizenship in the arts as well as using their art skills in a collaborative mode to develop and enhance all learning.

Teaching these standards in order will provide a smooth progression of skills. However, once a standard has been introduced, it is not necessary to complete all the indicators of every objective before moving on to the next standard. The next standard can be introduced while maintaining a practice and continuation of the one(s) preceding it. Ideally, during the last few weeks of the school year, the students should be working with all four standards as there is a great deal of educational value arising from the interrelationship and interdependence of all the standards.

Elementary Visual Arts Standards

Standard 1: Making

The student will explore and refine the application of media, techniques, and artistic processes. In this standard the student learns to use new tools and materials and expands skills in the creation of art.

Standard 2: Perceiving

The student will analyze, reflect on, and apply the structures of art. In this standard the student uses meaningful works of art to recognize the elements and principles and applies them in personal work.

Standard 3: Expressing

The student will choose and evaluate artistic subject matter, themes, symbols, ideas, meanings, and purposes. In this standard the student investigates artistic content and begins aesthetic inquiry through observation, discussion, and the creation of art works.

Standard 4: Contextualizing

The student will interpret and apply visual arts in relation to cultures, history, and all learning. In this standard the student will place their artwork and the artworks of others within the context of civilization, other areas of learning, and life skills.

Third Grade Dance

Standard 1 (Moving): The student will identify and safely demonstrate knowledge of the body and movement skills in performing dance.

Objective 1: Participate safely and regularly in warm-up activities followed by strengthening, endurance, and flexibility exercises.

  a. Recognize and avoid possible room or outdoor hazards.
     - Strategy example: Discuss the hazards of dancing in cold rooms, slippery floors, concrete or tile floors. Practice safety measures; e.g., wear a sweatshirt, wear tennis shoes on concrete. Stay away from obstacles.
  b. Participate in dance with an awareness of appropriate safety concerns; e.g., warming up before stretching, never bouncing on a stretched muscle, drinking water, knees over toes.
  c. Understand, define, and demonstrate personal space in stationary warm-up activities. Understand group space by filling the space evenly in locomotor activities.
  d. Show an increase in strength, endurance, and flexibility.
     - Strategy example: To increase strength, lie on back, bend knees with hands behind head and elbows to side, lift head and shoulders toward ceiling while breathing out. To increase endurance, increase repetitions over time. To increase flexibility, in "tailor" sitting position, round back by putting head close to the floor and hold for 16 slow counts.
  e. Show an increase in coordination, agility, alignment, and balance.
     - Strategy example: With feet in parallel placement, body straight, and knees over toes, bend knees on count 1, straighten legs on count 2, rise on count 3, and balance for 4, 5, and 6, lower heels and bend knees on 7, straighten legs on 8. Repeat.
  f. Show an increase in balance and strength.
     - Strategy example: Stand on one leg, hold other leg, then stretch the leg forward.

Objective 2: Identify and execute axial and locomotor steps.

  a. Demonstrate axial movements of bending, twisting, reaching, and turning.

  b. Create simple locomotor combinations of moving forward, backward, sideways, and circling.
  c. Create with a partner a repeatable locomotor pattern moving through space with meeting, parting, passing, and circling.
  d. After seeing a dance, discuss the element of space; e.g., recognize the locomotor steps the dancers used.

Objective 3: Expand dance vocabulary with movement experiences using the basic qualities of energy and motion.
  a. Order a sequence of improvised movements that demonstrate changes in quality of motion; e.g., choose descriptive words such as perch, jab, melt, slither.
  b. After seeing a dance, describe the element of energy.
    - Strategy example: Identify the kinds of motion qualities the dancers used; e.g., percussive, sustained, vibratory, swing, suspend, collapse, and explode. Explain how these contrasts make the dance more interesting.

Standard 3 (Creating): The student will improvise, create, perform, and respond to movement solutions in the art form of dance.

Objective 1: Explore the process of making a dance.
   a. Experiment with a movement sequence based on a non-metric image; e.g., sneeze or a tickle.
   b. Experiment with a movement sequence or phrase by combining directional changes of locomotor steps that use quarter notes and eighth notes; e.g., walk, hop, run, and jump.
   c. Make symmetrical or asymmetrical shapes that sustain themselves for the length of whole and half notes. Make these shapes on different levels and/or facing different directions.

Objective 2: Create and discuss movement solutions derived from movement exploration.
   a. Create and practice a pattern of movement with a clear beginning and a clear ending.
      • Strategy example: Discuss how movement exploration can become set into a pattern with a beginning and an ending; e.g., compose a phrase on a non-metric image based on the above exploration and add a beginning symmetrical shape and an ending asymmetrical shape.
   b. Observe and discuss movement solutions of other classmates/ dancers.
   c. Evaluate success in using personal space, landing quietly on feet, following directions, remembering sequences, and using unique and/or creative movements.

These particular masterworks are chosen for their appeal, their potential in demonstrating different music elements, and their suitability to this grade level. There are many other selections that could be substituted and/or added to the list. Consider equally powerful works from the various "non-Western" cultures of the world.

Third Grade Theater

Standard 1 (Playmaking): The student will plan and improvise plays based on personal experience and heritage, imagination, literature, and history for informal and formal theater.

Objective 1: Plan, with the teacher, interrelated characters in a classroom dramatization.
 a. Plan and pantomime interrelated characters in a classroom dramatization.
 - Strategy example: Have students divide the class in half. Each half pretends to be a carnival that travels to small towns around the country. What no one knows is that these two carnivals are from the future. Their entertainment and games offer hints of a world that exists only in our imaginations. Plan the carnivals and create the entertainment and games that come from the future. Take turns visiting each other's carnivals. What conflicts or tensions might exist between the carnival people and the townspeople? The teacher should be in-role with the students from beginning to end. What do these future games and entertainment tell us about the future?
 b. Plan and improvise interrelated characters in an opened-ended dramatic situation.
 - Strategy example: Have students pretend they are riding a merry-go-round at the state fair. Very few people know each other. Suddenly, a loud thud is heard on the roof and a huge helicopter lifts the entire merry-go-round off the ground and flies off with it. How will they help each other hang on? What happens next? Why is this happening? How does the story end? Name several ways in which all characters are interrelated.

Objective 2: Plan, with the teacher, dialogue and physical attributes for characters experiencing high tension.
 a. Plan and improvise a brief scene where one character, alone, is experiencing high tension.
 - Strategy example: Have students consider urgent situations in everyday life; e.g., late for the school bus but can't find shoes, locked out at home in a storm and trying to get in, accidentally threw year-long class project in huge garbage dumpster at school.
 b. Plan and improvise dialogue and physical attributes in a scene between two characters experiencing high tension.
 - Strategy example: In Cinderella, have students, in pairs, consider the part where Cinderella's mean Stepsisters try frantically to make the glass slipper fit.

Objective 3: Plan, with the teacher, alternative endings to a familiar story.
  a. Create and improvise a new ending to a familiar story.
    - Strategy example: What if a turn of events made Cinderella a Princess and the Prince a poor man?
  b. Create and improvise several new endings to one familiar story.
    - Strategy example: Have students create a different ending from the viewpoint of several characters in the story of Cinderella; e.g., the Stepmother, the Stepsisters, the Fairy Godmother, and the Carriage Animals, etc.

Standard 2 (Acting): A student will cooperate, imagine and assume roles, explore personal preferences and meanings, and interact in classroom dramatizations.

Objective 1: Develop body awareness and spatial perception through movement and pantomime. (See Dance Core.)
  a. Use large rhythmic movements in space.
    - Strategy example: Have students use their bodies to "paint" in space with the music, while others try to figure out what they are painting; e.g., modern art, famous events, landscapes, people, places, things, etc.
  b. Use movement to endow animals with human traits and vice versa.
    - Strategy example: In groups of three and four, have students create circus acts that include at least one human being in each act; e.g., a trapeze act with monkeys and humans, a bear act, a lion act, a clown act with seals and humans. Repeat the activity. This time the audience is made up of all animals that have come to see the humans perform under the control of the animals. What circus acts would animals like to see humans perform for them?
  c. Use clear pantomime to communicate one person's idea.
    - Strategy example: In pairs, have students pretend to take another student to a special place and show them around. Have the visiting student report to the class what was experienced.
  d. Use clear pantomime to communicate a group idea.
    - Strategy example: Working in small groups, have students figure out some things in nature they all agree are things to be thankful about; e.g., sun and rain causing the flowers to grow, trees to climb and hug, caves to explore. Each group will find a way to pantomime all input as one group idea.

Objective 2: Develop expressive use of the voice.
  a. Use clear diction. (See Music Core.)
    - Strategy example: Have students sing or speak nursery rhymes together in groups of four. Others will respond to the clarity of the diction and the unity of the foursome.

   b. Use pitch, tempo, and tone quality to create unique voice qualities.
- Strategy example: Have students imitate the voices of their favorite cartoon characters. Improvise a scene that takes place in life every day; e.g., they engage in conversation with other people while using cartoon voices. How does this change communication and message?

Objective 3: Develop body sensory awareness and sensory recall.
   a. Use the senses to listen, observe, and discriminate.
- Strategy example: Divide class into four lines or teams. The first person in each line listens to the teacher say, "large black triangle!" The team that finds, goes to, and touches it first gets a point. Whole team must touch it.

   b. Use sensory recall to pantomime walking over pretend surfaces.
- Strategy example: Have students consider using environments like thick grass, hot pavement, slippery rocks, deep mud, etc.

Objective 4: Develop cooperation and patience when working with others in classroom dramatizations.
   a. Demonstrate cooperation while staying in the scene.
- Strategy example: In a pantomime, have students, in pairs, cooperate to help each other escape over and through dangerous pretend obstacles such as deep mud, thorn bushes, hot sand, rope bridge, barbed wire fence, etc.

   b. Demonstrate patience in-role.
- Strategy example: Have students, in pairs, escape across a pretend rope bridge. One person is injured and weak, and the other must be responsible for guiding both of them across safely. Because of the injury, they must move very, very slowly.

Standard 3 (Understanding Art Forms): The student will compare, connect, and incorporate art forms by describing and analyzing methods of presentation and audience response for theater and dramatic media, including film, television, electronic media, and other art forms.

Objective 1: Understand and practice appropriate audience behavior when attending live theater.
   a. Understand that an appreciative audience helps the actors do their best.
- Strategy example: Discuss questions in class like: How many of you have been to a live play? How does that experience differ from going to a movie? A circus? A sports event? Do actors know you are there? How do they know? How can an audience help or hinder actors?

b. Understand that audience etiquette requires specific behaviors.
- Strategy example: With your help, have the students make a list of etiquette behaviors important to live theater; e.g., prompt-ness, good listening and watching, appropriate laughter and applause, inappropriate noise control, most always no food or drink, limited coming and going. Discuss why these behaviors are important. Have students role-play the effects of bad etiquette on live actors.

Objective 2: Understand the use of visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements in live theater. (See Visual Arts Core.)
a. Identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how they are used in live theater.
- Strategy example: Have students attend a live theater production; e.g., Charlotte's Web. Then have students identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how these elements were used in the live theater production they attended.
b. Identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how their use in an animated film is similar to and different from their use in live theater.
- Strategy example: Watch an animated film; e.g., Charlotte's Web. Have students identify elements and discuss similarities and differences between the art forms of animated film and live theater.

    b. Describe why a local craft or art form looks like it was made in your area.

Objective 3: Recognize the connection of visual arts to all learning.
   a. Use a visual arts form as a help in expressing an idea in a non-art subject; e.g., a science project, the writing of a poem, a social studies project.
   b. Create a tableau using body shapes invented in dance with elements and principles learned in art.
      - Strategy example: Group the brightest shirt colors of participants to make a focal point, overlap some participants with others to create a sense of depth, arrange participants to form a variety of lines.
   c. Explore personality or achievements of famous people by examining a significant portrait of them.

Fourth Grade Dance

Standard 1 (Moving): The student will identify and safely demonstrate knowledge of the body and movement skills in performing dance.

Objective 1: Participate safely and regularly in warm-up activities followed by strengthening, endurance, and flexibility exercises.
   a. Recognize and avoid hazards in the environment; e.g., cold or hot rooms, slippery floors, dancing on concrete or tile.
   b. Recognize and implement safe dance practices.
      - Strategy example: Drink water, warm up the body before stretching, practice soft landings, never bounce on a stretched muscle or force a stretch.
   c. Discuss and understand personal and group space.
      - Strategy example: To warm up the body and to fill the space evenly, walk through the space for 16 counts, then stretch own way for 16, walk for 8 counts, then stretch in a different way for 8, walk for 4 counts, then stretch for 4, walk for 4 again, stretch for 4.
   d. Show an increase in strength, endurance, and flexibility.
      - Strategy example: For strength, with feet parallel bend knees over toes, keeping back straight and heels on the floor; straighten legs; rise on toes and then lower heels. For endurance, increase repetitions over time. For flexibility, regularly stretch with legs and feet together while sitting, and rounding the head toward the knees, keeping the knees straight, taking 16 slow counts before releasing.
   e. Show an increase in coordination, agility, alignment, and balance.
      - Strategy example: For balance, stand very tall on one leg, hold knee of other leg, then stretch leg forward and slowly lower to floor.
   f. Discuss a variety of possible goals; identify two personal goals to improve oneself as a dancer; e.g., fully extending feet, focus, balance, rhythmic accuracy, concentration.

Objective 2: Identify and execute axial and locomotor steps.
  a. Demonstrate axial movements of bending, twisting, reaching, and turning.
  b. Identify the five simple locomotor steps and the three complex locomotor steps;
      i.e., walk, run, leap, hop, and jump are simple; skip, slide, and gallop are complex.
  c. Review and execute the locomotor steps of walk, run, leap, hop, and jump, skip, slide, and gallop while moving through space.
  d. Understand and demonstrate teacher-created combinations of the basic locomotor steps of walk, run, leap, hop, jump, skip, gallop, and slide.
      * Strategy example: The teacher creates a simple or complex locomotor pattern such as walk, hop, walk, leap, walk, jump, and hop.
  e. Create one's own locomotor pattern that moves across the floor and that can be repeated; utilize no more than four different locomotor steps.

Standard 2 (Investigating): The student will identify and demonstrate movement elements in performing dance.

Objective 1: Expand dance vocabulary with movement experiences in time.

      * Strategy example: Create a 16-count metric phrase to include whole notes, 2 half notes, 4 quarter notes, 8 eighth notes. Next, create a new rhythm pattern by rearranging the sequence, keeping like note values together; e.g., 2 half notes, 8 eighth notes. Perform the rhythm pattern at slower and faster tempos.
  c. Listen to various forms of music and (1) brainstorm about movement possibilities in relationship to the music, (2) improvise movement possibilities, and (3) discuss new or unusual solutions discovered for making dances. (See Music Core.)
  d. Recognize simple forms; e.g., ABA (chorus, verse, chorus) and simple rounds.
      Create movement phrases using the above forms. (See Music Core.)
  e. After seeing a dance, identify the musical forms used in the dance; e.g., ABA, round. (See Music Core.)

Objective 2: Expand dance vocabulary with movement experiences in space.
  a. Identify and demonstrate positive and negative space by making shapes individually and with each other.
  b. Create shapes that are off-balance or off-center, shapes that have a narrow base (e.g., balancing on one foot or one knee), and shapes that have a wide base (e.g., supporting the body's weight on two hands and two feet).
  c. Explore shapes with a partner, connecting body parts; e.g., knee, elbow, foot, head, leg, back.

d. Explore spatial concepts by drawing patterns.
  - Strategy example: Create a diagram for movement on the floor using curved, straight, or zigzag paths. Determine where each dancer begins and ends; e.g., on or off stage, groupings, and/or spacial arrangements as dancers move through the diagram. Perform the chosen movement for the class.
e. After seeing a dance, identify spacial qualities such as use of focus, range of motion, positive and negative space.

Objective 3: Expand dance vocabulary with movement experiences using the basic qualities of energy and motion.
  a. Improvise movement to demonstrate various qualities of motion; e.g., hover, slither, slash, press, and perch.
  b. Create a sequence demonstrating varying qualities of motion; e.g., hover, slither, slash, press, and perch.
  c. After seeing a dance, recall a movement phrase that used a particular kind of energy. Identify the energy quality.

Standard 3 (Creating): The student will improvise, create, perform, and respond to movement solutions in the art form of dance.

Objective 1: Explore the process of making a dance.
  a. Explore contrasting qualities, such as heavy and light movement, with various body parts and discuss the differences.
  b. Pantomime sports activities, then abstract them into dance.
    - Strategy example: Exaggerate or diminish the movement, make part of it faster and part of it slow motion, make part of it harder and softer. Distort, repeat, or perform the action with a different body part or backwards.
  c. Explore with a partner the spatial relationship of meeting, parting, and passing.

Objective 2: Create and perform movement solutions derived from movement explorations.
  a. Create and set sequences of spatial relationships by recalling phrases from the above improvisations.
    - Strategy example: With a partner, create a composition of entering, meeting, parting, and passing.
  b. Observe and discuss movement solutions of other classmates/ dancers.
    - Strategy example: Evaluate success in using personal space, landing quietly on feet, following directions, remembering sequences, and using unique or creative movements.
  c. Explain how to progress from exploration, to making choices, to creating choreography.
  d. After seeing a dance concert, discuss dance production.
    - Strategy example: Talk about how the costumes, lighting, scenery, props, and music can impact the dance.

e. After seeing a concert, evaluate the performance.
   - Strategy example: Describe what the dance might be about; describe unique or creative movements the dancers performed and what the choreographer used to communicate ideas, feelings, or moods; identify the skills a dancer must have such as strength, flexibility, endurance, coordination, agility, balance.
f. Demonstrate by moving, drawing, or writing an awareness of how dance can communicate an idea, feeling, or purpose.

   b. Attend a performance or watch a video of dancers from various ethnic communities and discuss the characteristics of the traditional dances.
   c. Define and discuss classical dance forms; e.g., ballet, modern dance, jazz, or tap dance.

Objective 3: Make connections between dance and other disciplines.
   a. Create a dance project from another art form.
      - Strategy example: Observe a sculpture and notice the volume, depth, energy, three dimensionality, texture, etc. After observing, choose two or more qualities listed above and develop a movement composition reflecting those qualities.
   b. Create a dance project from literature or poetry.
      - Strategy example: Using cinquain poetry form, assign contrasting movement choices to the nouns, adjectives, and action words. Think of synonyms for these words. Explore. Create own dance movement in cinquain form.
   c. Create a dance project from the sciences.
      - Strategy example: Assign a movement and a rhythmic value to a penny, nickel, dime, quarter, and half dollar. Create a movement phrase that represents this proper change for a particular math problem.

   d. Determine success in accompanying without covering up the melody.
   e. Assess ability to make good musical sense by "breathing" where the phrases are.
      • Strategy example: Determine the basic form of the piece by marking the repetitions, contrasts, and variations. Plan where it makes sense to "breathe." Play accordingly.

Standard 3 (Creating): The student will create music through improvising, arranging, and composing.

Objective 1: Create original music and add expression and new form to existing music.
   a. Improvise simple rhythm and/or melody patterns to echo back and forth, and manipulate in a variety of ways to organize into different forms.
      • Strategy example: Working first with the voice, and then with found sounds or instruments, experiment with the organization of the phrases. Consider the forms of call/response, theme and variations, etc.
   b. Improvise a soundtrack for a story and/or a poem.
      • Strategy example: Consider effects with various dynamics, timbres, pitches, and tempi. Plan, practice, and perform it for classmates.
   c. Create variations in the form of a song.
      • Strategy example: Create an introduction or an ending (coda). Devise a new "C" section or add variations to the "A" sections.

d. Create together a new song and/or a new chant ("rap").
   - Strategy example: As a class, choose the subject, compose the verse, and consider using some of the simple improvised rhythm/melody patterns created together above. Strive for intentional contrasts in the phrases to create interest and for repetitions to achieve unity. Decide what volume, timbres, and tempo to use. Plan, practice, and perform it for each other. Think about recording it.
e. Build and demonstrate a simple string instrument to provide a needed effect for any of the above projects.
f. Compare and contrast creating forms in music with creating forms in other things; e.g., visual arts, dance, drama, poetry, etc. (See Dance, Language Arts, Theater, Visual Arts Cores.)

Objective 2: Express ideas, thoughts, emotions aesthetically through singing, playing, and/or creating.

Other Broadway musicals may be considered such as Oklahoma, Carousel, Sound of Music, South Pacific, The King and I.

These particular masterworks are chosen for their appeal, their potential in demonstrating different music elements, and their suitability to this grade level. There are many other selections which could be substituted and/or added to the list. Consider equally powerful works from the various "non-Western" cultures of the world.

Fourth Grade Theater

Standard 1 (Playmaking): The student will plan and improvise plays based on personal experience and heritage, imagination, literature, and history for informal and formal theater.

Objectives 1: Collaborate to select interrelated characters, environments, and situations for classroom dramatizations.

a. Plan, in small groups, interrelated characters, environments, and situations for a classroom dramatization based on a familiar story and dramatize.
b. Plan interrelated characters based on specific actions.
   - Strategy example: Working in pairs, have one student begin a specific action (throwing a rope out of a boat, rolling on the ground, digging a hole, building a wall, etc.). The second student may enter the improvisation as soon as he/she has at least one way to interrelate to the first student; e.g., pretend to be drowning and grab the rope, cover the person with a blanket as if he/she were on fire, arrest the person digging the hole, and, as a neighbor, complain about the wall being built.
   - Strategy example: Dramatize Aesop's Fable The Wind and the Sun and explain in what ways characters, environments, and situations are all interrelated.

Objective 2: Plan and record dialogue and physical attributes for characters in conflict with each other that make sense considering the given circumstances of a specific story or classroom dramatization.
a. Plan, improvise, and record original dialogue for two characters in conflict.
   - Strategy example: Have the students consider the following questions: Who are the characters? What do they want? What is the conflict? When does it take place? Where are they? What makes the situation urgent? How does it get resolved? Now improvise this original scene. Repeat and refine.
b. Describe, improvise, and record specific and interesting physical attributes that can be observed in real people when they are in conflict with another person.
   - Strategy example: Have students keep a journal of character observations. Have them describe, in writing, specific and unique physical mannerisms observed in real people when they are in conflict with others; e.g., one man always keeps pushing his glasses up while closing one eye because conflict makes him perspire, one woman always crosses her arms and twists back and forth while looking up rather than at the other person, someone else's voice goes way up and words get all twisted. In pairs, improvise scenes depicting collected physical mannerisms of people in conflict.

Objective 3: Describe and explain plot structure in terms of beginning, middle, climax, and end. (See Language Arts Core.)
   a. Construct tableaux that represent the beginning, middle, climax, and end of a familiar story.
      - Strategy example: In Little Red Riding Hood, the students might choose for the beginning, a scene where Red is about to leave home and Mother is giving her a basket for Grandmother. You may wish to break the class into groups of five or eight and instruct them to find a role for all students in the tableau. Students might take the role of Mother, Red, a basket, a door, a table, etc.
   b. Improvise original stories which include a beginning, middle, climax, and end.
      - Strategy example: The students in one group might decide the beginning goes like this: "She opened the closet door and all the clothes were gone! Yet, there was a strange glow coming through the walls." In groups of four, collaborate to decide on a middle, a climax, and an ending. Dramatize it.

Standard 2 (Acting): A student will cooperate, imagine and assume roles, explore personal preferences and meanings, and interact in classroom dramatizations.

Objective 1: Develop body awareness and spatial perception through movement and pantomime. (See Dance Core.)
   a. Use energy to create the illusion of being very heavy or very light.
      - Strategy example: Have students create the illusion of jogging in slow motion. Have them imagine what different changes in condition would do to their body; e.g., heavy weights on their feet, then arms, then waist. Suddenly all weight is gone, and they hardly weigh more than a feather. They float up into the air. Finally, they create the illusion of floating slowly down to earth again. Describe the illusions created.
   b. Use movement to stimulate imagination.
      - Strategy example: Individually, then in pairs, threes, and fours, while facing each other holding hands, students are given a five count, with you counting out loud and ending by saying "freeze." Have students explore as many shapes with their whole body as possible.
   c. Pantomime inanimate objects.
      - Strategy example: In pairs, have students plan and improvise and then share conflict pantomimes between two inanimate objects; e.g., a pencil and a pencil sharpener might be in conflict because the pencil keeps breaking off its lead tip; a hammer and a nail could be in conflict because the nail keeps bending.

d. Pantomime slow motion adventures.
- Strategy example: In groups of five, become deep sea divers going down to the sea floor on a dangerous mission. Remember, the focus here is slow motion and physical situations; e.g., freeing a sea creature caught in a trap, disarming a bomb, saving people trapped in an airplane with the air running out, finding gold in a dangerous old ship.

Objective 2: Develop expressive use of the voice.
  a. Use persuasive arguments in a given situation. (See Language Arts Core.)
- Strategy example: In fours, two play parents and two play children. The two children find a lost kitten that has been abandoned. The kitten is wet and crying. The children take the kitten home and try to convince their parents to keep it. The parents have never allowed pets before.
  b. Use vocal tone and pitch to reflect feelings. (See Music Core.)
- Strategy example: Have each student imagine telephoning a friend with a very important message and instructions. The answering machine is on. Leave a message. Use a real tape recorder if possible. Have students discuss how vocal tone and pitch reflect feelings.

Objective 3: Develop emotional recall.
  a. Use emotional recall to act out specific emotional situations.
- Strategy example: Ask the class to help build a list of emotions they all have experienced. Put the list on the board. Have each group of four or five select an emotion. It is OK if different groups select the same emotion. Each group thinks of a situation where the entire group would be feeling this one emotion. Have each group improvise an original scene based on the selected emotion. Others observe and try to understand the connection between the scene and the chosen emotion.
  b. Use emotional recall as motivation to change routine actions.
- Strategy example: Have students pick three different things they do as a rule every morning when they get up; e.g., brush teeth, get dressed, make toast. Now have students pantomime this routine two or three times, each time recalling a different emotional memory from their recent past, such as remembering that the big project for class which is due today is lost, that the class is going on a really fun field trip today, that summer vacation is only six days away and school is getting impossible, that recently a loved pet died, etc. Discuss how recalling specific emotional memories changed or colored the actions in a daily morning routine.

Objective 4: Develop an ability to listen to and observe others before responding in classroom dramatizations.

a. Create action supportive of someone else's idea.
- Strategy example: Have students observe two students improvising a scene. How could they contribute to the ideas of what is happening in the scene already? Have them enter the scene and join the improvisation; e.g., two students are in-role as pilots trying to land a failing plane, and the two joining actors assume the roles of two airplane mechanics. They ask the pilots how they can best help.

b. Create tension supportive of someone else's idea.
- Strategy example: Have students observe several students improvising a scene. How could they add tension to the scene that would support the direction it is already going? Have them enter the scene and create tension to support the existing ideas; e.g., if the scene is a group of explorers lost on a strange planet, then joining students might add tension by spotting strange tracks or reporting contact with alien life forms.

Standard 3 (Understanding Art Forms): The student will compare, connect, and incorporate art forms by describing and analyzing methods of presentation and audience response for theater and dramatic media, including film, television, electronic media, and other art forms.

Objective 1: Understand the actor-audience relationship in live theater.

a. Observe and explain the actor-audience relationship in live theater.
- Strategy example: Have students attend live theater. Have students closely observe the relationship between the actor and the audience. How does this relationship affect the faces and bodies of other audience members? Can one observe any effect on the actors in response to the audience? Have students discuss what these observations of the actor-audience relationship mean in terms of quality live theater.

b. Observe and identify levels of audience etiquette.
- Strategy example: Have the students attend live theater. Have the students closely observe theater etiquette. Create a list of specific behaviors that help identify excellent, good, fair, and poor levels of audience etiquette.

Objective 2: Understand the use of visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements to create and support mood in live theater. (See Visual Arts Core.)

a. Identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how some or all of them are used to create and/or support mood in live theater.
- Strategy example: Have the students attend live theater. Have them identify the major moods presented in the play. Observe closely and explain how some or all of the elements were used to create and/or support mood in the live theater production.

b. Identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how their use to create and/or support mood in feature films is similar to or different from their use for the same purpose in live theater.
- Strategy example: Have the students attend the same feature film or watch the same feature film on video. Observe closely and explain how the two arts forms are similar and different in their use of the elements to create and/or support mood.

Standard 4 (Analyzing and Constructing Meanings): The student will explain personal preferences and construct meanings by responding to improvised and scripted scenes and to theater, film, television, and other electronic media productions.

Objective 1: Analyze and explain how the wants and needs of characters in a dramatic presentation are similar to and different from one's own wants and needs in real life. (See Language Arts Core.)
- a. Identify the main objective of the protagonist in a dramatic presentation and discuss any connections to one's own life.
  - Strategy example: Have students read a play and identify the protagonist's main objective. Then discuss the character's wants and needs driving this main objective and compare them to one's own wants and needs in real life. How many share a similar main objective? How many share similar wants and needs but not the main objective?
- b. Identify the major conflict that prevents the protagonist from immediately achieving the main objective and discuss any connections to one's own life.
  - Strategy example: Have students read a play and identify the protagonist's main objective. Then identify and discuss the major conflict preventing the protagonist from achieving the main objective. Ask students to discuss any connections to their own lives. Anyone have a similar conflict blocking an objective? Know anyone who does?

Objective 2: Analyze and critique dramatic presentations using appropriate terminology and constructive suggestions with the intent to refine the work.
- a. Suggest ideas for improving an informal theater piece from the viewpoint of a critic.
  - Strategy example: Have half of the class observe the other half present an informal theater piece. Have the observers, in pairs, discuss and write down one idea for improving the piece using appropriate terminology and constructive language. Compare these suggestions with the suggestions of the performers.

b. Suggest ideas for improving an informal theater piece from the viewpoint of an actor.
- Strategy example: After the performance, have the performers of the piece, in pairs, discuss and write down one idea for improving the piece using appropriate terminology and constructive language. Compare these suggestions with the suggestions of the observers.

Objective 3: Analyze and explain emotional responses to and personal preferences about informal and formal theater experiences from the viewpoints of both performer and audience.
  a. Identify and explain moments of pathos in live theater.
- Strategy example: Have students attend live theater. Have them identify and articulate moments in the production where feelings of sympathy and tenderness were aroused within them as a result of a character's suffering or condition. For example, in Charlotte's Web, the scene where Charlotte tells Wilbur she is going to die and asks him to watch over her children would be considered a strong moment of pathos in the play.
  b. Identify and articulate moments or ideas of strong liking and disliking in live theater.
- Strategy example: Have students attend live theater. Have them identify and articulate personal preferences in the production. These articulated likes and dislikes should be in response to the script, the performers, the technical aspects of design supporting the production, or the live theater experience as a whole.

Fourth Grade Visual Arts

   a. Recognize and avoid possible room or outdoor hazards.
      - Strategy example: Talk about possible dangers, concrete or tile floors, cold or hot rooms, slippery floors, equipment in the way. Practice taking safety measures to prevent injuries; e.g., wear tennis shoes, drink water, stay away from equipment, etc.
   b. Recognize and implement safe dance practices; e.g., warm up the body before stretching, land toe-ball-heel, never bounce on a stretched muscle or force a stretch. After strengthening exercises are complete, stretch that same muscle group to keep it healthy and in balance.
   c. Discuss and understand personal and group space.
      - Strategy example: Alternate walking and stretching for 16, 8, and 4 counts. Be aware of others while traveling through the space.
   d. Show an increase in strength, endurance, and flexibility.
      - Strategy example: For strength, do leg raises to the front; for endurance, increase repetitions over time; for flexibility, roll down the spine beginning with the head, hold for 8 slow counts, then "unroll" the spine to standing.
   e. Demonstrate proper alignment and balance; e.g., with feet in parallel position, bend knees over toes, back straight, straighten knees, rise on half toes, balance, lower heels.
   f. Identify two areas of individual dance strengths; e.g., concentration, upper body strength, flexibility, balance. Identify one area to improve; e.g., range of motion, stretching feet, focus, concentration. Commit to improve.

   a. Accent the first beat of every measure in 2/4, 3/4, 4/4, and 6/8 meter with one or more body parts or by changing the shape of the whole body. Expand the exploration of accents by changing and/or combining the direction, level, or energy qualities.
   b. Clap and move on the beat of slow, medium, and fast tempi. Move twice as fast or twice as slow in each tempo, making the movement larger or smaller.
   c. Explore, in a small group, creating a 16-count rhythm pattern, performing the patterns in place, moving through space, and changing the floor pattern and spatial relationships among the dancers.
   d. After seeing a dance, discuss the element of time. Consider replicating one of the rhythm patterns.

Objective 2: Expand dance vocabulary with movement experiences in space.

Identify how the choreographers changed the elements of space, time, and energy to abstract the movement; e.g., variety, climax, transition, balance, sequence, repetition, unity, and contrast.
  g. Discuss observations: determine how well the dancers maintained concentration and followed directions; identify skills dancers need such as strength, flexibility, agility, sensitivity.

   a. Create a dance project from another art form.
       • Strategy example: Clap the rhythm, identify the texture, weight, volume, tone color, and melodic line to give character to the movement. Create a movement sequence which expresses the character and note value/rhythm of the phrase. Suggestion: Brahm's "Lullaby," Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker," etc.

d. Create together a new song and/or a new chant ("rap").
  - Strategy example: As a class, choose the subject, compose the verse, and consider using some of the simple improvised rhythm/melody patterns created together above. These particular masterworks are chosen for their appeal, their potential in demonstrating different music elements, and their suitability to this grade level. There are many other selections which could be substituted and/or added to the list. Consider equally powerful works from the various "non-Western" cultures of the world.

Fifth Grade Theater

Standard 1 (Playmaking): The student will plan and improvise plays based on personal experience and heritage, imagination, literature, and history for informal and formal theater.

Objective 1: Collaborate to select interrelated characters, environments, and situations that create tension and suspense for informal and formal theater.
   a. Plan, in small groups, interrelated characters, environments, and situations that create tension based on Utah state history and dramatize. (See Social Studies Core.)
      * Strategy example: Departure question: Can students better understand the Farmington Flood if they explore this history through drama? Divide students into mantle of the expert groups. Each group selects an area of historical research surrounding the Farmington Flood; e.g., experts on the railroad, the clergy, the town, the island, the merchants, the mill, the farmers. Each student will select a character name based on the name of a real pioneer. Each group plans daily tensions to role-play, including both within and between group tensions; e.g., merchants argue about pricing within group, while the mill complains that output is suffering because the clergy keeps taking workers to build a town hall and church. Each group is also asked to plan one crisis that will need the help of other groups to resolve; e.g., a derailed train, a fire in a merchant's store, a ferry run adrift on the way to the island, an insect crisis on the farms. Finally, after all this struggle, the Farmington Flood hits. The citizens help one another move to high ground. The town is leveled. What will this group of citizens do now? What did the real citizens do in back then? Do we still have similar struggles today? Could we still have a flood? Are towns better prepared for floods and other natural disasters today? If so, why? Have students write a personal diary entry from the character's viewpoint. Have them read the diary entry aloud to the class as if it were a diary that had been handed down to them over many generations.

b. Plan, in pairs, interrelated characters, environments, and situations that create suspense.
- Strategy example: Working in pairs, have all students memorize the same nonsense dialogue. Then, have them plan their own interrelated characters, environments, and situations that create suspense using the nonsense dialogue; e.g., a prison guard finds a prisoner trying to escape, two sisters meet after a big fight, a grave digger opens a casket to find someone still alive, two thieves run into each other in a darkened house they are both trying to rob, a potato and a peeler get thrown in the same drawer.
  - Here is one example of a nonsense dialogue scene students might use:
    > Character One: "Hello."
    > Character Two: "Hello."
    > Character One: "What are you doing here?"
    > Character Two: "What are you doing here?"
    > Character One: "What's that?"
    > Character Two: "It came for you."
    > Character One: "Oh, great."
    > Character Two: "Want to talk about it?"
    > Character One: "OK, I guess."
    > Character Two: "OK."

Objective 2: Plan and record dialogue and physical attributes that reveal specific attitudes or motives in characters for informal and formal theater.
   a. Identify and imitate dialogue and physical attributes in a character that reveal a specific attitude and/or motive.
- Strategy example: Watch an animated feature film. Select one character to study. Listen to what that character says, how the voice sounds, and how the character's body moves. Identify and imitate a specific attitude and/or motive revealed by dialogue and physical attributes; e.g., the hyenas or the lion that is the evil brother to the king in The Lion King.
   b. Create dialogue and physical attributes in a character that reveal a specific attitude and/or motive.
- Strategy example: Have students play the Time Warp game. Each student will select one famous person to impersonate from any time in history, past or present. Taking turns, five famous characters at a time are "time warped" into a specific location with a specific problem to solve; e.g., Ben Franklin, Joan of Arc, Michael Jackson, Richard Nixon, and Madonna are suddenly challenged to free themselves from a stuck elevator. The teacher gives each group a new location and a new problem to solve. Students are challenged to reveal attitude and/or motive through dialogue and physical attributes.

Objective 3: Describe and explain plot structure in terms of conflict.
   a. Plan and improvise a scene from a book or play in which the major conflict comes from within the character. (See Language Arts Core.)
      - Strategy example: In Bridge to Terabithia, Jess faces several conflicts that come from within him; e.g., being friends with Leslie even though she beat him in the big race, struggling with his fear of storms and water, dealing with his own feelings about what happened to Leslie, bequeathing Terabithia to his little sister. Have students plan and improvise major conflict scenes from this book. Was the internal conflict made clear in the scene? How does the conflict affect plot? Which conflict is the major conflict in this story?
   b. Create and improvise an original scene in which the major conflict comes from the environment. (See Health Education Core.)
      - Strategy example: In fours, have each group select a conflict from a list of natural disasters; e.g., tornadoes, hurricanes, blizzards, floods, earthquakes, forest fires.   Have students create and improvise crisis scenes based on surviving in times of natural disasters. How is a disaster plot different from a plot based on internal conflict or person-to-person conflict? In what survival, disaster, and emergency skills should we all be trained just in case?

Standard 2 (Acting): A student will cooperate, imagine and assume roles, explore personal preferences and meanings, and interact in classroom dramatizations.

Objective 1: Develop body awareness and spatial perception through movement and pantomime. (See Dance Core.)
   a. Synchronize movement.
      - Strategy example: Play the Mirror Game. The first actor faces a second actor and begins to move in slow motion. The second actor mirrors the first actor with synchronized movement; e.g., first with the teacher leading, then in pairs. Have them try it at different distances such as 2 feet, 6 feet, 12 feet, and 20 feet. Try having students randomly switch to a new partner on drum beats. It is fine if more than one actor focuses on another on the switch. Discuss the kaleidoscope-like random shapes and appearance that keep happening as new partnerships explore mirroring. Repeat and try it with music and different kinds of movement.
   b. Use levels of space to create movement for fantasy characters.
      - Strategy example: Have students find a place on the floor not touching anyone else. Each child must "freeze" in a standing, lying, or squatting position. Ask them to explore movement at each level working off a five count. Discuss what fantasy characters might use these kinds of movements. In groups of five, create a community for each set of fantasy characters. How do they live and function? Share scenes with the class.

c. Pantomime transformation of objects.
- Strategy example: Standing in a circle, have students begin exploring what the Hula-Hoop might become. The teacher demonstrates by transforming the Hula-Hoop into some other object that engages the entire body; e.g., pretend it is a huge steering wheel on a giant vehicle, a super large magnifying glass, a magic doorway that changes a person into some other creature, a belt for a very large individual, an electronic prison cell, a flying machine. Work individually then in pairs.
d. Pantomime to construct different meanings by changing the way a movement is executed.
- Strategy example: Have the students pretend to write a letter at their desks. They must know who is writing the letter, to whom it is going, and why it is being written. List some possible adverbs that might aid the character's movement to construct new meanings about the who, whom, and why; e.g., frantically, sneakily, thoughtfully, passionately, regretfully. Repeat and refine the letter writing pantomime again using new adverbs to inform the action.

Objective 2: Develop expressive use of the voice.
a. Construct and communicate different meanings by changing the intensity, pitch, and rhythm of the voice. (See Music Core.)
- Strategy example: Challenge the students to see how many ways they can say "Come here."   Challenge them to say it using a variety of intentions leading to many meanings of inflection such as disgust, urgency, pleading, enticement, anger, joy, questioning. Have the class discuss the clarity of meanings communicated.
b. Construct and communicate different meanings by changing the way one breathes while speaking. (See Music Core.)
- Strategy example: Challenge the students to perform the famous line, "To be or not to be, that is the question." Have them repeat it several times, each time using a different breathing rhythm (normal, fast, slow, rapid, nearly asleep, heavy, etc.). Have the class discuss the clarity of meanings communicated.

Objective 3: Develop emotional recall to strengthen mood in a scene.
a. Use emotional recall to strengthen contrasting moods.

- Strategy example: In threes or fours, have students choose a situation in which characters are obviously in a happy mood; e.g., astronauts who have made a successful landing on Mars, explorers who have just found buried treasure, hikers who have successfully climbed a mountain. Ask each scene group what could go wrong in their situation to cause a strong mood change in the scene. Each group acts out their scene for the others depicting the events that cause the mood change. Discuss how emotional recall can strengthen these contrasting moods; e.g., hikers who have successfully climbed a mountain suddenly are confronted with a blizzard. They might pretend to recall the emotional memories of friends who lost their lives in similar climbing situations.
  b. Use emotional recall to express a character's feelings in a given situation.
    - Strategy example: Have students draw two cards, one from an action pile; e.g., actions like read a letter, clean the house or yard, enter an empty cabin at night, prepare to bungee jump. Then choose one from an emotion pile; e.g., sadness, happiness, fear, anger. Discuss the thoughts and emotional memories students chose to use in connecting the emotion to the action.

Objective 4: Develop an ability to give and take focus in classroom dramatizations.
  a. Demonstrate giving and taking individual focus in-role.
    - Strategy example: Have students, in pairs, improvise a scene where the two of them are walking alone on a beach and come across a very frightened seagull caught in a barbed wire fence. Have them demonstrate giving and taking focus while they attempt to free the seagull from the barbed wire.
  b. Demonstrate giving and taking group focus in-role. (See Social Studies Core.)
    - Strategy example: Have students, in small groups, improvise a scene where each group represents a wagon train of pioneers heading west. Have each group demonstrate giving and taking focus by creating a crisis that requires the help of others to resolve it; e.g., broken wagon wheel, renegade attacks on wagons lagging behind, wagon overturning in a river.

Standard 3 (Understanding Art Forms):   The student will compare, connect, and incorporate art forms by describing and analyzing methods of presentation and audience response for theater and dramatic media, including film, television, electronic media, and other art forms.

Objective 1: Understand how the performer-audience relationship differs between art forms. (See Music Core.)
   a. Observe and explain differences in performer-audience relationships between art forms.
      • Strategy example: Have students attend at least two live performing arts events representing different art forms; e.g., plays, musicals, operas, dance concerts, pop music concerts, symphony orchestras. Compare performer-audience relationships between these art forms. Discuss observations with the entire class.
   b. Observe and identify different rules of audience etiquette between art forms.
      • Strategy example: Have students attend at least two live performing arts events representing different art forms; e.g., plays, musicals, operas, dance concerts, pop music concerts, symphony orchestras. Have students closely observe performing arts etiquette. Have them create separate lists of behaviors assigned to specific art forms. Discuss the similarities and differences between art forms concerning rules of etiquette.

Objective 2: Understand the use of visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements across performing art forms. (See Visual Art, Music, and Dance Cores.)
   a. Identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how they are used in two or more different performing art forms.

   b. Identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how they are used differently in film and television compared to live performing art forms.
      • Strategy example: Have students watch film or television versions of plays or musicals. Have students identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how they are used in these mediums. Compare the use of these elements in both live and non-live mediums. What are the similarities and differences?

Objective 3: Select and integrate dance and music elements into dramatic presentations.
   a. Subordinate music elements into a dramatic presentation. (See Music Core.).
      • Strategy example: Have students subordinate music into a dramatic presentation. Have them use music to support the dramatic presentation in several ways; e.g., as mood music at certain moments, as part of a scene where an actor actually plays a music tape, as emotional memory for a character, as metaphor for a storm scene.

b. Subordinate dance elements into a dramatic presentation. (See Dance Core.)
- Strategy example: Have students subordinate dance into a dramatic presentation. Have them use dance to support the dramatic presentation in several ways; e.g., as a way to stylize fantasy scenes, as part of a scene where an actor actually dances, as dream flashbacks, as choreography in musical theater, as metaphor for dramatic content such as fight scenes.

Standard 4 (Analyzing and Constructing Meaning): The student will explain personal preferences and construct meanings by responding to improvised and scripted scenes and to theater, film, television, and electronic media productions.

Objective 1: Analyze and explain how the opposing wants and needs of the protagonist and the antagonist in a dramatic presentation are similar to and different from one's own wants and needs when in conflict with others in real life. (See Language Arts Core.)
  a. Identify the major conflict between the protagonist and the antagonist in a dramatic presentation and discuss any connections to one's own life.
- Strategy example: Have students read a play and identify how the major conflict between the protagonist and the antagonist reflects individual wants and needs. Compare this conflict of wants and needs to conflicts of similar nature experienced in real life. How many share a similar conflict with someone else? In what ways is it similar? Have students discuss how individual wants and needs might lead to major conflicts with others in real life.
  b. Identify and describe in detail the conflict resolution in a dramatic presentation.
- Strategy example: Have students read a play and identify how the major conflict was resolved. List and describe the logical progression of thinking and events that explain the way the conflict was resolved. Ask students to discuss any connections to their own lives. Can students trace a linear path between conflicts and resolutions in real life?

Objective 2: Analyze and critique dramatic presentations in terms of both the planning and the playing process using appropriate terminology and constructive suggestions with the intent to refine the work.
  a. Suggest ideas for improving the planning and playing process in an informal theater piece from the viewpoint of a critic. (See Language Arts Core.)
- Strategy example: Have half of the class observe the other half plan and present an informal theater piece. Have the observers, in pairs, discuss and write down ideas for improving the piece using appropriate terminology and constructive language. Compare these suggestions with the suggestions of the performers.

b. Suggest ideas for improving the planning and playing process in an informal theater piece from the viewpoint of the actor. (See Language Arts Core.)
    - Strategy example: After the performance, have the performers of the piece, in pairs, discuss and write down ideas for improving the planning and playing process using appropriate terminology and constructive language. Compare these suggestions with the suggestions of the observers.

Objective 3: Analyze and articulate emotional responses to and personal preferences about constructed meanings for informal and formal theater experiences from the viewpoints of both actor and audience.
a. Identify and explain the constructed meaning of a play from the viewpoint of the audience and in what ways meaning is reflective of individual emotional responses and personal preferences to the play.
    - Strategy example: Have students attend live theater and write, individually, a one-paragraph statement indicating the constructed meaning revealed to them by the production. Have all students read their opinions to the rest of the class. Discuss differences in terms of individual emotional responses and personal preferences.
b. Identify and explain the constructed meaning of a play from the viewpoint of the actor and in what ways meaning is reflective of individual emotional responses and personal preferences to the play.
    - Strategy example: Have students present a dramatic presentation. Have each individual write a one-paragraph statement indicating the constructed meaning revealed to them in rehearsing the dramatic presentation. Invite all students to read their opinions to the rest of the class. Discuss differences in terms of individual emotional responses and personal preferences.

   c. Discuss and understand personal and group space.
      - Strategy example: To warm up the body and to fill the space evenly, walk through the space for 16 counts, then stretch own way for 16; walk for 8 counts, then stretch in a different way for 8; walk for 4 counts, then stretch for 4; walk for 4 again, stretch for 4.
   d. Warm up the body properly for activity.
      - Strategy example: While lying on the back, feet in the air, flex and point the feet and roll the ankles to warm them. Legs are straight or knees slightly bent.
   e. Increase balance, strength, and flexibility; e.g., stand on one leg and stretch the body with the other leg parallel to the floor.
   f. Create own warm-up and discuss how that warm-up prepares the body and mind for expressive purposes.
      - Strategy example: Discuss the need to alternate activities from day to day so that some muscle groups can recuperate while others are working.
   g. Identify three personal goals that challenge the mind and the body and list specific steps to achieve those goals; e.g., focus the mind and body toward specific dance tasks, allow the movement to reflect inner feelings, explore activities that require immediate response to commands.

  f. Identify major and minor sounds in familiar songs and listening selections.
  g. Demonstrate familiarity with suggested listening selections.
    • Strategy example: Identify the piece on hearing the music by telling a story connected with the writing of the piece and/or naming the title or composer. After being told the composer/title, hum the tune, tap the rhythm, or describe the music in terms of pitch, volume, tempo, timbre, and style.
  h. Summarize personal preferences in music selections according to excellence of performance, meaning/purpose, and use of music elements.
  i. Hypothesize the universal message, meaning, and/or purpose of the music.

Sixth Grade Theater

Standard 1 (Playmaking): The student will plan and improvise plays based on personal experience and heritage, imagination, literature, and history for informal and formal theater.

Objective 1: Collaborate to select interrelated characters, environments, and situations that create tension and suspense for informal and formal theater.

a. Plan, in small groups, interrelated characters, environments, and situations that create tension and suspense based on world history and dramatize. (See Social Studies Core.)

- Strategy example: Departure question: Can students better understand the Holocaust if they explore this history through drama? Select one situation to become a metaphor for understanding the Holocaust; e.g., a daring POW escape during the very last days of WWII.
    - o The dramatic question: Should the prisoners gamble on being liberated or take a big risk and try to escape? Everyone knew it was all go or none. With Nazi soldiers running off every day, security was greatly reduced. Perhaps the evil camp commandant would kill them all to prevent escape or liberation. Perhaps he would run off himself. With many prison camps closing, prisoners from many countries and many backgrounds were thrown together in one camp or another. Given all they had survived, could they even come to a consensus? In fact, they did and they escaped. Hence, the focus is really an exploration of how people in a crisis arrived at such a very difficult group decision. Divide students into mantle of the expert groups. Each group selects a specific group of POWs to research (Jewish citizens, American military, Nazi military, Russian military, French underground, Red Cross, etc.). Break the dramatization into several scenes; e.g., POWs arriving at prison camp, once in barracks they organize, parade ground line-up and threats from the commandant, to escape or not to escape, escape planning, escape, liberation. Have students write response papers to read to the class. Have them articulate how and what they were able to learn through drama.

b. Recognize how themes help interrelate characters, environments, and situations.

- Strategy example: In groups of five, collaborate to plan an original scene based on an agreed upon theme; e.g., "honesty is the best policy" or "say NO to drugs" or "don't judge a book by its cover" or "give me shelter" or "power to the people." Have students explain how themes helped interrelate characters, environments, and situations.

Objective 2: Plan dialogue and physical attributes focusing on characterization for informal and formal theater.
  a. Plan and improvise dialogue and physical attributes for a character based on real individuals considered to be "world leaders" in the 20th century.
      - Strategy example: Do in-depth background study on a world leader from the 20th century. In groups of five, choose one famous individual per group to portray. Hold a press conference. The world leader from each group will join a panel and be interviewed together by the rest of the class acting as reporters. Have the reporters ask questions about solutions to current big problems in the world. Later, mix them together in groups and repeat interview scene. Allow for argument among the characters.
  b. Plan and write dialogue and physical attributes for an original character based on an interesting photograph of a human face. (See Language Arts Core.)
      - Strategy example: Individually, write a monologue for this character that includes parenthetical descriptions of physical attributes and actions that take place during the monologue. Have students exchange monologues so they may rehearse and perform the original monologues.

Objective 3: Collaborate to create and improvise a short play that demonstrates an understanding of plot elements. (See Language Arts Core.)
  a. Incorporate traditional plot elements into an original short play.
      - Strategy example: Have students review traditional plot elements; e.g., incident, exposition, major conflict/problem, complications, climax, loose ends/ending. Have them, in small groups, create a short original play that includes all the traditional plot elements. When groups share these short original plays with the class, have observing students identify all traditional plot elements.
  b. Write a short one-act play. (See Language Arts Core.)
      - Strategy example: Have students write a plot outline for a short one-act adventure comedy; e.g., "Sport the Mosquito Draws First Blood" or "Misty the Moth Sees the Light" or "Chip Risks It All Without Net." Have students offer feedback and ideas for each outline. Each student now writes a short one-act adventure comedy.

Standard 2 (Acting): A student will cooperate, imagine and assume roles, explore personal preferences and meanings, and interact in classroom dramatizations.

Objective 1: Develop body awareness and spatial perception through movement and pantomime. (See Dance Core.)
   a. Use the quality of movement to reveal a character.
      • Strategy example: Ask students to open and close their hands as they walk about the room randomly. Expand this exercise to include legs, face, and the entire body. Ask them to move about while maintaining either an open or closed position. While they are moving, side coach them.   Have them think about what kind of person might be open or closed. What kind of mood is this person in today? Ask them to say "Hello" to others as they pass.
   b. Interpret color through movement. (See Visual Arts Core.)
      • Strategy example: Assign a color to each group of four or five or allow them to choose their own color. Ask each group to interpret their color the way they want; e.g., perhaps they connect red with fire and build a concrete scene around a fire, or perhaps they abstractly become the fire. Each group shares its constructed meaning with the class.
   c. Pantomime being in a specific place.
      • Strategy example: Play the Where Game. The class sits in one large circle. One student begins the game by entering the circle and pantomiming an action that clarifies the "where" of the scene. When others believe they know the "where," they may enter the scene and help build it. Eventually, all students enter the scene, and the entire room transforms into the "where."
   d. Pantomime being in a specific place that keeps changing to a new specific place.
      • Strategy example: Play the Where Game again. This time you have the option to secretly send a student into the scene with instructions to begin a new action that transforms the scene into a new place; e.g., from a hospital operation room to a deep sea science lab. As others become aware of the change, the scene transforms.

Objective 2: Develop expressive use of the voice.
   a. Use gibberish to communicate feelings through vocal tone, pitch, volume, and rate of speech.
      • Strategy example: Working in threes, place all students in a large circle. Using gibberish that sounds like a common language, one team enters the circle and begins to improvise a scene where three characters are faced with an urgent problem to solve; e.g., lost in the mountains, adrift at sea. On the teacher's signal, a second team enters the scene. Using the gibberish established by the first team, the second team helps solve the problem. Repeat the activity using other teams and new gibberish.

b. Use persuasive arguments and active listening in a dramatic situation. (See Language Arts Core.)
- Strategy example: In pairs, stand back-to-back and do not touch or see each other. Improvise a phone conversation between a parent and a young person. The child has just walked to the store to get some milk for breakfast. The time is 8 p.m. and the store is only one block away in a good neighborhood. Six hours pass and it is now 2 a.m. The parent is worried sick and the police have been alerted. The phone rings and it's the child calling from somewhere with a true but very wild story to tell. You say, "Ring, ring, ring" to begin the scene. Discuss the success of the child's persuasive argument, and then discuss the importance of active listening skills in this scene.

Objective 3: Develop emotional recall in characterization.
a. Use emotional recall to express a character's passion about an issue.
- Strategy example: Have students think of an adult character they know who is very passionate about an issue in life. Have them create one sentence that concisely states this passionate belief. Have other students argue against this belief. Discuss with the students where the emotional recall came from; e.g., did it come from one's memory of the passionate adult, did it come from one's identifying with the passion expressed by that adult, or did it come from an agreement with that adult's passionate belief?
b. Use emotional recall to create an inner dialogue for a character.
- Strategy example: While pantomiming a common daily morning routine, have students speak out loud the inner dialogue that might be going on in their heads. Have students base their inner dialogue on something that they tend to worry about in real life; e.g., "I can't believe I lost my big project ... the one time I had something done on time so far this year ... I'll just tell the teacher the truth and ... wrong ... she'll just say it is another excuse like the other times ... then she'll give me a failing grade ... maybe I'll just drop the class!"

Objective 4: Develop an ability to work in ensemble when working in informal and formal theater.
a. Work in ensemble when preparing a group performance.
- Strategy example: Have students reflect on and discuss their ability to work as complementary parts contributing to a single whole preparing to perform. Make suggestions for improving ensemble.
b. Work in ensemble when performing a group performance.
- Strategy example: Have students reflect on and discuss their ability to work as complementary parts contributing to a single whole or performance. Make suggestions for improving ensemble.

Standard 3 (Understanding Art Forms): The student will compare, connect, and incorporate art forms by describing and analyzing methods of presentation and audience response for theater and dramatic media, including film, television, electronic media, and other art forms.

Objective 1: Understand the unique relationship between the audience and the performing arts.
   a. Observe and explain the impact of an audience on artistic outcome in the performing arts.
       • Strategy example: Have students attend at least one performing arts event were they are able to interview live performers following the event; e.g., plays, musicals, operas, dance concerts, pop music concerts, symphony orchestras. What do the performers believe the relationship is between an audience and the quality of a performance on any given day? Can the performers offer any concrete examples? How do the performers take this issue into account during the rehearsal process? During the performance run? How does the audience figure into a performer's vision of the best possible outcome of a performance?
   b. Plan and explain ways audience etiquette can extend beyond the performing arts event.
       • Strategy example: A week or so before attending a performing arts event, have students brainstorm and plan ways to demonstrate audience etiquette before and after the actual event takes place. Before-event ideas might include reading the play to improve understanding and interest, listening to the music, discussing the background of the playwright, composer, creator, etc. After-event ideas might include interviewing the performers, attending post-event question-and-answer sessions, writing comments to the performers, writing a review, etc.

Objective 2: Understand the use of visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements to express ideas and emotions across the performing arts. (See Visual Arts Core.)
   a. Identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how they are used to express ideas and emotions in a performing arts event.
       • Strategy example: Have students attend a performing arts event. Have them focus on understanding how visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements help express ideas and emotions in the performing arts event; e.g., in To Kill A Mockingbird, a lightning flash reveals the larger-than-life shadow of Bo standing in the window reinforcing Scout's fear of Bo; in Bridge to Terabithia, the sound of the crows crowing gives Leslie the idea to pretend the goblins are attacking, and she tells Jess to pick up his sword and protect the stronghold; in Romeo and Juliet, the musicians at the dance just happen to begin playing romantic music as the lovers' eyes meet for the first time.

b. Identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how they are used to express ideas and emotions in television.
- Strategy example: Have students watch specific television ads. Have students identify visual, aural, oral, and kinetic elements and explain how they are used in television commercials to sell products. What emotions are advertisers trying to evoke in the viewers? Why? What ideas are being expressed? What does the term emotional association mean in advertising? Identify and explain examples of emotional associations in television commercials. Articulate the idea the advertiser wants to communicate in specific ads. Why does emotional association work in advertising? Does it work in the performing arts?

Objective 3: Select and integrate dance, music, and theater equally in an original dramatic presentation. (See Dance and Music Cores.)
a. Plan and integrate dance, music, and theater equally in an original performance piece.
- Strategy example: Have students plan and perform an original performance piece in which dance, music, and theater share equal focus; e.g., a piece that studies the life of young Mozart. Students could present a ballet revealing the painful loneliness in his childhood. Music could tell the amazing gifted side of his youth. And, theater could explore the kinds of relationships he had with family members, especially his very strict father.
b. Plan and subordinate dance, music, and theater equally in the service of one another in an original performance piece.
- Strategy example: Continue to develop the original piece created in the above indicator. Always find ways to support the focused art form by subordinating the other two in support of it. Perform the piece again.

Standard 4 (Analyzing and Constructing Meanings): The student will explain personal preferences and construct meanings by responding to improvised and scripted scenes and to theater, film, television, and electronic media productions.

Objective 1: Analyze and explain how the world of the play, with its own identity, conflicts, and problems, is similar to and different from one's own world in real life.
a. Identify and explain the similarities and differences between the play's world and one's own world.
- Strategy example: Have students read a play and write a list with two columns. One column will list the similarities between the play's world and the students' world. The other column will list the differences between the play's world and the students' world. Consider many kinds of possible connections to one's own world; e.g., moods, attitudes, occupations, feelings and emotions, conflicts, friendships, wants and needs, endings.

b. Identify and describe real life omissions left out of the play's world.
- Strategy example: Have students read a play and write a list of what real life things are left out that our own worlds deal with every day. Discuss several reasons as to why the things appearing on the lists do not appear in the play's world. Are there any things on the list that should appear in the play's world? Explain.

Objective 2: Describe and critique the perceived effectiveness of students' contributions to the collaborative process of developing dramatic presentations for informal and formal theater. (See Language Arts Core.)
a. Suggest ideas for improving student effectiveness in planning and playing dramatic presentations.
- Strategy example: After completing a classroom dramatization or a theater production, have students, individually, write constructive evaluations addressing the perceived effectiveness of the overall process. Ask them to use appropriate theater terminology and make useful suggestions for improvement. Remember, quality art is in the details.
b. Suggest ideas for improving artistic quality in classroom dramatiza- tions and student productions.
- Strategy example: After a classroom dramatization or student production, have all the students meet within a few days for a postmortem session. This is an opportunity for students and teachers to openly and constructively discuss the process and make suggestions for improvement. Make a list of specific things the participants believe will help improve artistic quality. Discuss each recommendation openly in the session.

Objective 3: Analyze and critique the constructed meanings in a play. (See Dance, Music, Language Arts, and Visual Arts Cores.)
a. Identify and explain the constructed meaning of a play, including consideration of individual emotional responses, likes, and dislikes.
- Strategy example: Have students attend live theater. Individually, have them write a short paper identifying and defending meanings constructed by the play, as interpreted from their own viewpoint after having experienced the play live.
b. Read and explain a review written by a drama critic.
- Strategy example: Have students, individually, locate a review of a play. If possible, it should be the review of a play the student has also seen live. Have students share their own opinions about both the play and whether or not they are in agreement with the viewpoint of the drama critic. Encourage the students to send their own reviews to the drama critic for consideration.

    a. Use one point, linear perspective to create an illusion of depth.
    b. Portray distant objects higher on the drawing paper.
    c. Use the horizon line to represent eye level in artwork.
- Strategy example: When drawing a scene from life, draw a horizon line on the paper and place objects relative to it in the same way they relate to the eye level in the real scene; e.g., above, below, directly on.

Dance Glossary

Alignment: The concept of skeletal relationships; i.e., posture. Refers to the relationship of the skeleton to the line of gravity.

Asymmetrical: A design, space, time, or energy that is not the same on both sides.

Axial Movement: Any movement that is anchored to one spot by a body part using only the available space in any direction without losing the initial body contact. Movement is organized around the axis of the body rather than designed for travel from one location to another.

Choreography: The art of making a dance, or the design of a dance.

Composition: The art and craft that organizes all the elements and factors of dance into a visual product to be perceived by an audience.

Contrast: A diversity of adjacent parts in color, emotion, tone, and style.

Dynamics: Degrees of loudness and softness which give variety and meaning to music and dance. Forte (f) indicates loud; piano (p) indicates soft. Also used as the flow of energy applied to a single movement, a series, or a total dance piece.   Considered shadings in the amount or intensity of energy in movement, giving movement its expression. Also referred to as the interaction of forces of movement and motion that produce contrast.

Energy: The amount of force with which a movement is performed or the qualities of movement.

>   Bound: A strong energy force that is directed against the air, an object, or another person.

>   Collapsing: To suddenly lose force and energy. A movement that is characterized by a relaxed release into gravity, resulting in a folding or curling of the body downward.

>   Explode: A form of percussive energy; every part of the body is propelled into space in an instant of time.

>   Percussive: A movement quality that begins with a strong sharp impetus, extends energy in spurts, small or large explosions, stops suddenly at any point and then may start again.

>   Suspend: A movement that results when the initial force is expended for an instant, and a momentary stillness in space is achieved.

>   Sustained: A movement quality that is characterized by a constant, even flow of energy resulting in movement that is ongoing and smooth.

>   Swinging: A movement quality that is characterized by a reaction to the force of gravity. A body part is relaxed and drops along a curved path until the momentum of the drop carries it up on the other side of the curve where it suspends before returning its downward path.

>   Vibratory: A movement quality that results when the extreme of tension is applied to the vibrating part which responds with a series of fluttering, quivering movements.

Focus: The intensity and direction of movement as it is projected spatially; also, the use of the eyes and body to direct the focus in space.

Form: A component of all the arts. Form is the structure or plan on which a piece of art is based, giving it both design and unity rather than chaos.

Freeze: A command to cease all movement at once and to remain immobile in the shape the body presented when the signal word was given.

Improvisation: Movement which is created spontaneously, ranging from free form to highly structured environments but always with an element of chance. Provides the dancer the opportunity to bring together elements quickly and requires focus and concentration. Improvisation is instant and simultaneous choreography and performance.

Level: The space where movement occurs in relation to elevation; this may vary from low to high within the possible range of human elevation.

Locomotor Movements: Steps to get from one place to another.

> Gallop: A combination of a step-leap with a long-short rhythm.
> Hop: An elevation movement executed by taking off and landing on the same foot.
>
> Jump: An elevation movement executed by taking off and landing on both feet.
>
> Leap: An extended run; both feet are in the air at the same time.
>
> Run: A transfer of weight from one foot to another with increased tempo and a moment when both feet are off the floor at the same time.
>
> Skip: A combination step-hop with a long-short rhythm.
>
> Slide: A combination of step-leap or "cut-run" in a long-short rhythm. The body moves in a lateral position through space, with a moment of elevation, heels touching in the air.
> Walk: A transfer of weight from one foot to another in a smooth and even rhythm. One foot remains in contact with the floor.

Mirroring: Imitation of a leader with hands, arms, or other body parts in a slow sustained manner with very little locomotor action to reflect the movement of the leader as a "mirror" does. Usually done in partners.

Modern Dance: An artistic expression which revolutionized concert dance. It began around the beginning of the 20th century with Isadora Duncan, Loie Fuller, Ruth St. Denis, and other daring performers who rejected ballet. It was based on self-expression and a return to movement which was natural to the body. Modern dance choreographers are free to develop an individual movement vocabulary that suits their needs.

Personal/Group Space: Group space is the ability of the individuals to fill the space evenly while maintaining own personal space when moving. Personal space refers to the space which immediately surrounds the body in stillness and motion.

Phrase: A natural grouping of movements which give a temporary feeling of completion.

Positive/Negative Space: The positive areas in a composition are definite forms and shapes; negative areas are the unoccupied or empty spaces.

Space: An element of dance, relating to the area through which one moves. Space is a dancer's canvas.

Theme: A clear movement sequence that can be used as a basic structure for different variations.

Time: An element of dance, relating to the rhythmic aspects of dance as well as the duration and tempo of a movement.

Variety: The quality or state of having different forms or types, something differing from others of the same general kind.

Music Glossary

Beat: The steady, unchanging pulse in the music.
Dynamics: The various levels of volume.
　　*forte (f): loud piano (p): soft crescendo (<): gradually get louder decrescendo (>): gradually get softer Fermata: Hold the note until satisfied.
Form: Structure, organization of the music.
　　Theme and Variations (A A'A''A'''): A form in which the same section (theme) is presented several times with a different variation of it each time.

　　Introduction: A "preface" to the music.
G-Clef: Signifies the treble clef or notes of the upper half of the piano. Specifically marks the G-line in the treble clef.
Key Signature: None, one, or more sharps/flats that indicate which notes are to be raised/lowered a half step. Enables one to locate do and/or la in the music.
Leger Line: An extra piece of a line to locate additional pitches that go above or below the regular five staff lines.
Meter: A regular pattern of recurring accents on the beat, usually in twos, threes, or fours.
Natural Voice: An unforced voice, free from strain or distortion.
Note Values: Quarter notes are the basic unit of time. Half notes receive twice the time value. Whole notes receive four times the time value. It takes two eighth notes to equal the time of one quarter note and four sixteenth notes to equal the time of one quarter note. There are corresponding rests to signal the same time values, but instead of sound, they symbolize silence.
Ostinato: A short repeating pattern of rhythm and/or melody.
Pentatonic Scale: The pentatonic scale includes do, re, mi, so, and la, high or low octaves. Fa and ti are omitted.
Rhythm: A pattern of short and long sounds and silences. The rhythm is usually superimposed over an implied steady beat. Rhythm is the end result of starting with a beat, establishing a tempo for the beat, putting a pattern of accents on the beats, organizing them into a meter; then, working with those elements as a base, composing/ improvising a rhythmic pattern that rides on top of the beat, tempo, and meter.

Rhythm Instruments: Simple classroom instruments that are played by striking: drums, rhythm sticks, maracas, claves, triangles, cymbals, castanets, tambourines, tone bells, xylophones, (Orff instruments), cow bells, jingle bells, etc.
